"Life is still delightful at 91 years"... Jennie DREW Hinman x-'07

1910

This tribute has been received for classmate Cornelia STONE: "I have kept in touch with Cornelia, particularly since she has been incapacitated. She was one of the most courageous people I have ever known. Badly crippled from arthritis, moving painfully with a walker, with no sight in one eye and slight vision in the other, having lost her sense of touch, she never complained. Her voice was always cheerful. One would never guess, without seeing her, that she wasn't in the best of health. In the home where she lived, she organized a weaving class, and donating her many looms, she taught every week to the last. Although she could no longer distinguish colors or thread the intricate patterns with the eyes of those she had trained and her expert knowledge, she could still direct the work she loved so much." from Alma L. BUNCH '13

Marion HALE Bottomley -- "After 1 1/3 years I am still in a nursing home, feel fine but have to use a walker -- broken hip and some small bones -- arthritis in hand explains this scrawl." She heard from other 1910ers: Nel CARNEAL Drew, Margherita DIKE Hallberg and Irina LEVI Levy. Nell is living in Ft. Lauderdale; Irina is keeping busy, plays a lot of bridge and Margherita often visits her daughter in CT.

Since my husband's death I have lived in an apartment so I can walk to church, library, bank, post office and market. Very lucky, happy too. Seems queer not to have Pres. Winslow and his family at Lasell, though his son is there. I'm glad of that!" . . . Nell WOODWARD Collins.
